4-Power Proposal For Rhine Buffer Hits League Snag

Poland Leads Revolt on Plan for Hague Ruling, International Police in Rhineland, But Germany Says It May Form Basis

ALLIES SUGGEST A NEW LOCARNO

Would Revamp League After U. S., Japanese Consultation; Rejection Means Military Alliance

LONDON, March 20.—(AP)—Discord within the council of the League of Nations was disclosed tonight over provisions of the Rhineland program mapped by representatives of the four Locarno powers.

A row broke out when the document was submitted at a private session of the council.

Dr. Joseph Beck, foreign minister of Poland, led an incipient revolt by angrily accusing the Locarno members—Great Britain, France, Italy and Belgium—of trying to railroad the plan through the League which, he insinuated, they are attempting to dominate.

When Chile and Denmark gave evidence that they could not hastily approve the proposals without digesting them, Anthony Eden, Britain's foreign secretary, his first flush of enthusiasm chilled by this flank attack, hastily explained there was no intention of forcing anything upon the council.

Locarno Proposed.

The program constitutes a virtual super-military alliance by the four if Hitler refuses to accept proposals designed to lead to a new security framework for Europe.

The proposals—agreed to by the cabinets of Great Britain, France and Belgium—were published in a white paper submitted to the commons as Anthony Eden, British foreign secretary, began an explanation to the lower house.

The Italian government, one of the four parties to Locarno, has not indorsed the scheme, initiated by its ambassador to London. Italy apparently will not give full approval until similar standees will be made.

The plan envisages an international

Hitler Says 'I Won't Retreat,' But Confidant Avers He Will Placate London 'at All Costs.'

BERLIN, March 20.—(AP)—German officials and its controlled press pondered the Locarno proposal for a Hague ruling on the Rhine and international police there tonight as one of Adolf Hitler's intimates predicted the reichsfuehrer "is determined to come to an arrangement with Great Britain, cost what it may."

The chief thought behind the continental conferences at the Wilhelmstrasse, which were in progress until Hitler left to make a campaign speech at Hamburg, was to prepare the German public for demands by the four remaining Locarno members disclosed by the British white paper.

Awaiting Text.

Press headquarters explained no action will be forthcoming "so long as the entire text of the London proposals is not known."

The expression from one of Hitler's oldest lieutenants—one of the few who defied the Nazi dictator by the familiar German pronoun "Du"—pressured at least an effort for rapprochement between Berlin and London.

At Hamburg, Hitler declared he would not "retreat a single centime."

WALLACE REVEALS
NEW AAA DETAILS

Average of $10 an Acre Is Seen for Shifting to Soil Conserving Crops.

WASHINGTON, March 20.—(AP)—Lifting the cover from the administration's new $470,000,000 AAA program, Secretary Wallace tonight estimated subsidy payments to co-operating farmers would strike a broad national average of $10 an acre for shifting to soil conserving crops, plus other benefits.

The appeal of the new plan was pushed into the stage of actual operation.

At the White House, President Roosevelt late today signed the independent office of the farm bill, calling $40,000,000 for the same $30,000,000 of unexpended funds. The same measure carried a $1,730,000,000 authorization for paying the bonus.

At the agriculture department, Wallace announced details of the plan at an extended press conference and a few hours later sent telegraphic in-

GENERAL SALES LEVY PROPOSED IN ALABAMA

South Carolina Solons Study Bill To Aid Unemployment.

By the Associated Press.

The Alabama house of representatives Friday passed bills providing for referendums on the state's proposed sales tax and for institution of a two per cent general sales tax.

Both bills passed through by narrow margins and now go to the senate for consideration after the weekend adjournment until next Tuesday. The repeat referendum would be held April 14.

Approved package sales would be allowed in counties with "wet" municipalities while bonds could be sold in dry counties.

Mississippi's state senate voted Thursday to give the state's common schools an additional $1,200,000 funds making the total voted for school purposes at the current session $11,240,000.

Legislation laying the foundation for state unemployment compensation system was introduced in the South Carolina general assembly. A resolution to investigate the state constabulary also was started on its way to enactment.

A Senate tobacco crop control bill was recommitted for a public hearing of senators next Wednesday.

In Kentucky a friend of Governor Chandler officially developed on the heels of a revolt in the house of representatives which delayed action on the governor's $23,000,000 budget bill until next week. The governor appeared unperturbed.

NO TAX LEVY SEEN IN LUMPKIN COUNTY

Funds in Sight To Pay All Bills, Officer States.

DAHLONEGA, Ga., March 20.—(P)—The amount of the mountain county of Lumpkin will remain silent this year without levying taxes—or the first, if not the first, county in the state to do so.

John H. Moore, chairman of the board of county commissioners, and several others, say Lumpkin has sufficient funds on hand or in sight to meet current expenses this year.

Thus there will be no levy for county purposes. It is expected there will be school and state taxes to pay, however, but these usually are light here.

Back in 1919, a $6,000 debt gave the commissioners quite a time.

The debt until 1924 is no more, and now has $16,624 in the treasury. Of this amount, $4,025 has been set aside to pay road bonds due January 1, 1937.

F. M. McAdoo, ordinary, says the unusual record is due to good business practice of the commissioners. They pay cash for the things they buy.

The county has a share of the state gasoline tax to keep its roads in shape, and in addition will have available a sizeable sum for its highway reimbursement certificates.

Besides Moore, present commissioners are G. G. Satterfield and W. A. Hutcheson.

Lumpkin is an agricultural county in north Georgia.

TRAIN HITS BOXCAR, MANY ARE INJURED

LYNCHBURG, Va., March 20.—(P)—A Chesapeake & Ohio work engine struck a boxcar at Joshua Falls, 12 miles from here, tonight and more than a score of injured men were brought to two Lynchburg hospitals.

Railroad officials said there were five cases of broken legs among 18 injured men. Thirty-one men were brought to hospitals for treatment but most of them had only slight injuries.

The work party, numbering close to 100, had been repairing flood-damaged track and was on its way back to Lynchburg when the collision occurred. The men were brought here in ambulances and railroad equipment. One man, with a fractured leg, was thought to be near death. His name was not immediately available.

Robert Massie, of Lynchburg, foreman, was among the more seriously hurt.

POLK DEMOCRATS ASK PRESIDENTIAL VOTE

Frank Shackleford Heads Clarke County Roosevelt Club.

CEDARTOWN, Ga., March 20.—The Polk county democratic executive committee, in regular session here, unanimously adopted resolutions urging the state executive committee to call a state-wide preferential primary. Copies of the resolution were ordered sent to Governor Talmadge, to Chairman Hugh Howell, of the state committee, and to Marion Allen, chairman of the Georgia Roosevelt organization.

The resolution stated in part . . . "It is the desire of this committee and the democrats of Polk county that a presidential preferential primary be held in said state to let the democrats for themselves determine for whom the electoral vote of Georgia should be cast at the democratic national convention meeting in Philadelphia in June, and to urge that the chairman of the state executive committee and the members of the executive committee see that a fair opportunity is given the people to express themselves on this all-important question and that action be taken immediately, it now being past the usual time for calling such a primary."

In addition to the formal request for a primary, the Polk county committee embodied in the resolution that in the event the chairman and/or part of the membership of the committee should fail to call such primary that "all of those members of the committee who are in the state of Georgia" will in the winter meet together and act in calling a preferential primary in order that the people of Georgia may express themselves as to who they desire to receive Georgia's vote in the national democratic convention."

CONDON IDENTIFICATION OF BRUNO IS ATTACKED

Hauptmann's Execution Date Is Set for Night of March 31.

TRENTON, N. J., March 20.—(AP)—The defense renewed its attack to-night on Dr. John F. (Jafis) Condon's identification of Bruno Richard Hauptmann as Colonel Mark O. Kibbeler, witness of state, found to-night of March 31 for execution of the convicted Lindbergh kidnapper.

Although Hauptmann has only 11 days to live unless a second reprieve is granted he was reported to be "more confident than ever" he will escape the electric chair. His chief counsel, C. Lloyd Fisher, said he, too, was hopeful execution would be averted.

"On what do you base that hope?" Fisher was asked.

"On facts in our possession," he replied.

From an authoritative source it was learned that the defense, when it seeks a new trial, probably next week, will charge that Dr. Condon had plenty of opportunity to observe Hauptmann during the summer of 1932 in the months after the payment of the $50,000 ransom, and apparently failed to identify him as the kidnapper.

The source said that Hauptmann kept a canoe in a boat house on City Island within a quarter of a mile of Dr. Condon's real estate office. The source said Dr. Condon rented boats from the owner of the house.

Fisher said he had written Attorney General Frank Murphy this week to arrange for him to interview Dr. Condon. He said today he has not heard from Wilenitz, but hopes to get word tomorrow.

OFFICIALS PRAISE 'CLEAN-UP' WEEK

Annual Program To Be Supplemented by 'Paint-Up' Period Later.

Householders of Atlanta yesterday were urged by civic organizations and city officials to observe "Clean-Up, Paint-Up" weeks in the city from March 22 to 28, and from April 6 to 11.

The fire department and the American Legion Post No. 1 are continuing in putting over the first week's campaign for cleanliness, while the women's division of the Chamber of Commerce are sponsoring the second drive.

Fire Chief O. J. Parker yesterday was emphatic in his statement for householders to clean all debris which might be a fire hazard.

The women's campaign concurs in the fire department's aims, but goes further in urging Atlantans not only to rid the city of debris but to paint all buildings and plant shrubs and flowers in an effort to make the city more beautiful.

In the past, clean-up campaigns have proved successful, H. J. Cates, chief of the sanitary department, said. Last year garbage collections were 40 percent higher than usual during the week.

COMMANDER BOWMAN ORDERED TO SEA DUTY

Medusa, with the battle fleet in the Pacific, it was announced yesterday. He will be succeeded here by Captain Reed M. Fawell, now commanding officer of the U. S. S. Chicago.

The other orders also have been re-ordered by Lieutenant-Commander William H. Ferguson and Lieutenant Frank R. Walker. The former will go to an Asiatic station, and the latter will be executive officer of the U. S. S. Cassin. Their successors are to be announced.

U. S. C. OF C. CONDEMNS 'HOSTILE' LEGISLATION

WASHINGTON, March 20.—(AP)—The Chamber of Commerce of the United States issued tonight that private industry's efforts to provide more jobs for the unemployed—as requested by President Roosevelt—depended on "restoration of confidence" in the government.

In a resolution adopted by its board of directors, the chamber said industrial taxes, "units of collective investigation" and "hostile" legislation "discourage and retard" efforts to increase employment and slash relief costs.

The President, in his message to Congress last week, asking an additional $1,500,000,000 for additional WPA, said it was up to industry to help take the idle off relief rolls and keep relief appropriations down to that figure.

NEVER MIND THE WASHBOARD—WHAT ABOUT MY SHIRTS?

WASHDAY WAS RUINING HIS SHIRTS UNTIL his wife discovered a hole in the washboard. Yes—a hole—scrubbed right clear through that metal board! Imagine what scrubbing was doing to her clothes! No wonder her husband's shirts were wearing out so quickly.

Now she uses Rinsol. It makes our dirt—saves scrubbing—cleans fast 2 or 3 times deeper. Her wash is real snowy, too. And Rinsol is safer for colors—easier on hands. No wonder home-making experts of 338 newspapers—makers of 338 famous washing machines—recommend Rinsol. Try it. It's marvelous for dishes, too.

New Orleans Questions Payment on Aged Note

NEW ORLEANS, March 20.—(AP)—City officials were wondering whether they'd have to pay with interest a $2 note issued by the second municipality of New Orleans 97 years ago.

Alfred H. Seaward, chief deputy state tax collector, said he received the following letter from Louis Berger, 2319 Park avenue, Bronx, New York city:

"I am the owner of a $2 note, dated 1839, and signed by S. N. Turner, treasurer, and written on the face of the note, 'Faith of the Second Municipality, Pledged.' and payable to John Calhoun Jr., competitor, and now on the back of the note, John Calhoun Jr. Kindly advise me if it is possible for me to redeem this note or is what value has it?"

Seaward said he would look into the matter.

NASHVILLE PAPERS ARE ORDERED SOLD

Postponement by Appeal to High Court Said Probable.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., March 20.—(AP)—The Nashville Tennessean and the Evening Tennessean, now in receivership, were ordered sold to the highest bidder on June 1 in a decree issued today by Federal Judge John J. Gore, but attorneys said there was a distinct possibility of a postponement.

Bidding will start at $40,000, the figure contained in an "upset bid" offered last year by Paul M. Davis, Nashville banker. Davis proposed to pay $40,000 for property securing a $750,000 bond issue and $40,000 for other assets of the Tennessee Publishing Company, which publishes the paper.

Attorneys in the case said the sale would be postponed if the United States supreme court decides to consider an appeal, which counsel for E. W. Carmack, Murfreesboro publisher, have said would be filed.

The bodies of three men were taken from the debris, but only one, that of a Professor Van Zan, fortune teller who occupied an apartment above one of the stores, was identified. The others were burned and mangled beyond recognition.

The Texarkana property damage was estimated at $75,000.

Prosecuting Attorney Elmer Lincoln ordered a court of inquiry convened when fires razed the city. The blasts had been caused by gas and one of the store owners expressed belief of the robbery hypothesis.

The Texarkana, in which succession, jarred a wide area and sent masonry, shattered glass and merchandise into the street. The neighborhood shopping district, known as "Sandflat," was quickly enveloped in flames which were not controlled for three hours.

The victims of the Bassett farmhouse fire, 21, were Edgar Meeks, 30; his wife, 21; their two children, ages 2 and 4; and their father-in-law, W. M. Green, 65, and Green's son, 12.

Mr. W. M. Green was pushed through a window before the house collapsed and suffered critical burns and other injuries. Meeks, with a child beside him, and a bunch of keys in his hand, was found dead inside. He apparently made an unsuccessful attempt to unlock as the flames roared through the small house.

Ellenwood Physician Was Formerly Attached to Veterans' Bureau Here.

Dr. James Z. Henry, prominent Ellenwood physician and well known in Atlanta, died yesterday at a private hospital following a long illness. He was 53 years of age.

Born near Ellenwood, Dr. Henry began the practice of medicine in that community after he was graduated in 1909 from the Atlanta Medical College.

He remained there until 1925, when he accepted the post of clinical medical examiner for the United States Veterans' Bureau in Atlanta.

In 1926, at the request of citizens of Ellenwood, he returned to that community, remaining until illness in 1935 forced him to come to Atlanta for medical treatment.

Surviving are his wife, a son, R. L. Henry, 21, Mrs. Mary Richardson, of Ardmore, of Hartwell, and two brothers, J. W. Henry, of Chattanooga, and G. A. Henry, of Albertville, Ala.

Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at the Avi-ville Block Methodist church, near Ellenwood, with the Rev. M. L. Spain officiating. Burial will be in Bethel cemetery under the direction of A. W. & L. Lovelace.

NINE PERSONS PERISH IN ARKANSAS FLAMES

Six Members of One Family Killed in Farm House Blaze; One Injured.

TEXARKANA, Ark., March 20.—(AP)—Nine lives were lost today in fires which almost simultaneously swept a business district here and a farmhouse across the state.

Near Bassett, in extreme northeast Arkansas, six members of one family burned to death, trapped in a four-room plantation cabin. A seventh member of the family, only occupant of the house to escape, was gravely injured.

In Texarkana, early morning explorations tentatively blamed on accounts of wind and weather and set fire to six business establishments located on the Texas-Arkansas line, which bisects the city.

Designation of a permanent executive board yesterday featured a meeting of the Atlanta citizens' safety committee at the Chamber of Commerce, as Councilman John A. White, chairman of a joint council-citizens' traffic commission prepared to hold the initial meeting of his group at 10:30 o'clock this morning.

The two groups, it is believed, will pool their resources and resources in a move to curb automobile accidents, reduce the number of resultant deaths, and the appalling property losses.

Three of the seven members of White's commission are members of the executive board.

The safety committee lauded the work of the Atlanta Motor Club in establishing school boy patrols in 30 schools in the Atlanta area, and urged that others be equipped. Motor club officials equip the boys with Sun Brown caps and other materials needed and give them instructions in safety.

133,000 Represented.

Robert P. McLarty, temporary chairman of the citizens' group, asserted that the 72 persons attending yesterday represent 133,000 Atlantans, and pointed out that this means that the public is aroused concerning conditions of traffic.

Every woman's organization affiliated with the citizens' group was represented at the session, McLarty said.

The following were named as members of the executive board:

Preston S. Arkwright, president of the Georgia Power Company; General George Van Horn, president of the Georgia Banking Corporation; Senator E. R. Harrington; Walter C. Hendren, former senator from the thirty-fifth Georgia (Fulton county) district; McLarty; A. J. Harper, president of the Atlanta Federation of Trades; Jere A. Wells, superintendent of Fulton county schools; Mrs. Leonard Haas, representing the Atlanta League of Women; Steven Malcolm N. Fleming; A. L. Myers; Russell Whitman.

Harrington, Arkwright and Myers are members of White's committee and Councilmen Howard Haire, G. Dan Bridges and Frank Wilson are members of city council.

Thorough Study Promised.

White yesterday promised that the commission's study will be thorough and painstaking.

"We don't want to move until we are confident we are right, and then we are prepared to insist on action," White said. "Our committee proposes to recommend traffic laws and revisions of the present ones which will bring lasting benefit to Atlantans if we are successful."

SUPREME COURT GIVEN FINANCE SUIT APPEAL

Pomeroy and Moore concurring and Judge Humphries dissenting, it was held that the courts have jurisdiction to hear the case and that even though they are acting as a court of equity they may pass on the legality of the removal of Hamilton. The attorney general of Daniel, Attorneys for the Governor and representing Daniel contend that the action comes within the executive power of the Governor and cannot be reviewed by the courts, asserting that the Hamilton suit is only a suspension and is subject to review by the general assembly.

The matter went up a few hours after the suspended treasurer, Hamilton, had filed his interpleader. In it he charged that the Governor was acting illegally in the actions of the chief executive were deliberate violations of the constitution.

In his answer, filed at the order of the court, Hamilton pointed out that Attorney General Yeomans is not handling the matter for the de facto regime that he believed for the first time that prior to his removal the Governor told him that he is now embarked on the course on which he has now embarked was illegal and that he had assured Hamilton that he would not be asked to release funds without warrant of law.

In the lower court, upholds the decision of the Fulton county court that the courts have jurisdiction and the Hamilton interpleader will be considered by the lower court.

Banks Hold $2,500,000.

The three Atlanta banks which are holding $2,500,000 in state funds, pending final adjudication of the matter, have agreed to have been directed by the lower court to file their pleadings. Whether or not they will be filed immediately, in view of the fast bill appeal, could not be learned yesterday.

In his interpleader, the ousted treasurer

Atlanta Red Cross Opens Drive For Funds To Aid Flood Victims

Many Local Citizens Contribute in Nation-Wide Campaign To Obtain $3,000,000: Agency Is Only One Equipped To Meet Need.

The local chapter of the American Red Cross yesterday officially launched its drive for its quota of the $3,000,000 needed to provide food, shelter and prevent spread of disease among 38,000 families made homeless in 11 states as a result of floods.

The total number of subscriptions last night was the $5,000 mark. Phil C. McDuffie, chairman of the special committee in charge of the local drive, urged citizens to respond to the "national emergency."

The drive, which originated in Atlanta as a series of field workers penetrated the stricken areas and carried food, clothing and medical supplies to the flood's victims.

Method of Donating.

Checks should be made payable to the Atlanta Red Cross Chapter and sent to 291 Peachtree street, McDuffie said, and should not be made out to any individual. They should be made out for flood relief.

McDuffie, a member of the local campaign for General James H. Brooks, president of the Atlanta chapter; Gordon Brooks and Willis J. Miller Jr., who have taken a leading role in preparing details for the appeal.

At the same time, Admiral Cary T. Grayson, national Red Cross chapter leader, telephoned the Atlanta chapter that at least $3,000,000 will be required for relief. Emergency relief funds which are kept on hand at the national headquarters are being sent into the stricken areas, but soon these funds will be exhausted unless supplemented by large subscriptions from untouched sections of the country.

It Is National Emergency.

"We are confident that Atlantans will help us meet this emergency," McDuffie said last night. "Our people have never lacked sympathy; they have never failed to do all that was expected of them in the preservation of humanity. I want to take this opportunity to say that this is one of the worst disasters that has ever struck the United States within the past several years—in fact it has reached the proportions of a national emergency."

"Almost 40,000 known families in Pennsylvania, West Virginia, New York and other states are without food, shelter or clothing. The victims of disease if we fail to respond to this appeal for help. We cannot ignore it. If the conditions were reversed, they would rush to our assistance, and I know Atlantans will respond."

The Red Cross is the only agency equipped to meet this emergency. We can do it if we have the funds.

A contribution of $20 given to the fund at a meeting last night of Atlanta Voiture, No. 217, Forty and Eighth, held in the American Legion post headquarters, 18-12 Auburn avenue.

The many companies made returns totaling well over $1,200,000.

Under the law the taxes are to be paid to the comptroller general, an ex-officio member of the three-member revenue commission. If returns are made and the taxes not actually paid the full revenue commission issues a fine. An executive order is issued by the revenue commission.

Oil Firm Contentions.

R. E. Hodges, Georgia representative of the Standard Oil Company, said that the companies would await the f. i. f. before actually making payments. The companies are taking the position that the comptroller general is a de facto official and that his legal status is in doubt, the two other members of the commission.

Chairman Paul H. Doyal and Commissioner R. E. Matheson are bona fide officers and that they command the majority of the three-member board.

The f. i. f. probably will be issued today and actual payment made next week.

Bond Almand, of Atlanta, counsel for the Federation of Labor, will appear before Judge Wyatt at LaGrange to oppose the executive order of officials.

Hewitt and a number of assistants in the state department of law will appear on behalf of Daniel. They will contend that the suit is in fact a suit against the state and will maintain that it cannot hold without the consent of the state.

Judge Wyatt is not expected to continue the hearing in one day but to get it started today and conclude next week.

Five Days To Reply.

Today's motion gave the committee and the Federal Communications Commission, also named as a defendant, five days in which to reply to the allegations.

Black has defended the form of the subpoena used as sustained by senatorial precedent and court decisions. He read numerous past sub-potheses to show that those under attack correspond in language with those used in the Teapot Dome and Attorney-General Daniel's investigation.

The publicans were searching for a gubernatorial candidate who may be able to help them compose their differences. Prominently mentioned is State Senator George F. Fearon, of Syracuse, who heretofore consistently declined to be considered.

Most of the approximately 300,000 members of these families are without shelter, food or medical attention except that which will be provided for them by a sympathetic and warm-hearted people.

The funds called for by President Roosevelt are not for the rehabilitation of destroyed homes and business structures, but to make it possible that the actual necessities of life may be given to these stricken thousands.

Many of these families have lost members as the result of deaths in the swirling waters of the floods, there are thousands of injured and other thousands who are suffering from exposure.

America must open its heart and its pocketbook to such a plea for assistance. The Red Cross has the machinery to extend aid to every one of these unfortunate families, and all that is needed is that the necessary money be furnished to buy the food, clothing and other items needed.

The Atlanta Chapter of the Red Cross is located at 291 Peachtree street. Donations made there will be immediately forwarded to the flood-swept areas and within a few hours will have finished their errands of mercy.

GEORGE C. CRAWFORD

The death in Birmingham of George Gordon Crawford removes an outstanding and constructive leader of American industry.

A native of Madison, Ga., Mr. Crawford spent his boyhood in Atlanta. He was a member of the first graduating class of Georgia Tech and soon after entered the steel industry as a chemist with the Carnegie Steel Corporation.

It is said that steel men are "born, not made." Mr. Crawford was of that type, and his ability and intense interest in his work caused him within a comparatively few years to become one of the recognized leaders of the country in the affairs of the steel industry.

No man has rendered more far-reaching service in the development of the steel industry in the south, and the elimination of the evils with which it was handicapped during the early years of its existence, than Mr. Crawford. Largely as the result of his individual efforts, the industry in the south assumed its proper position in relation to the branches in other sections of the country.

He was an outstanding leader in removing the objectionable conditions surrounding labor conditions in the industry, and was the moving spirit in the creation of the modern steel town of Fairfield, in the center of the Alabama steel district.

His life was one of constructive leadership in his chosen work and his wise council will be missed, both in the steel and in business affairs generally, both north and south.

G. O. P. TACTICS

While several republican hopefuls have definitely announced their desire to be the party's candidate for the presidency, and their adherents are frantically beating the big drums to summon supporters to the several band wagons, word comes out of the east that the bigwigs of the party have finally agreed upon the man who will be nominated, and the name of the unfortunate individual will be disclosed as a compromise candidate at the psychological time during the convention in June.

Meanwhile the hopefuls are going up and down the land, speaking to various assemblages of republicans and denouncing the New Deal as the country's ruin, despite the fact that statistics disclose fourteen of the leading industrial corporations of the country were $265,850,000 better off in 1935 than they were in 1933.

In proportion as these great companies prospered smaller industries were benefited, and these benefits passed on to the nation—workmen, farmers, mercantile establishments and the professions.

In Vermont a rum is being made of maple syrup. To date, however, no griddle-cake, addict has gone home and beaten the wife.

An edible paper has been developed in Sweden. It is believed in commercial circles the cardboard pellicle will, in time, supersede the lower crust.

A new scheme to give whole high school courses via films is on the fire. The algebra problems, one hears, are all to have happy endings.

lives and property of the people of the city are to be safer than they now are.

World's Window BY PIERRE VAN PAASSEN.

Is the End In Sight.

MAIGDALA, Ethiopia. — When General Badoglio takes Amba Alagi, which is a foreign concession, the Italians will have reached the point where their army stood in 1896. When Ras Kassa's army is wiped out, or surrenders, the Italians will have a line running squarely across Ethiopia from the Sudanese borders to the Danakil desert, thus strangling out of that line, which is the work of the next few weeks, the first year's campaign comes to a close. It is raining pretty steadily now and large-scale operations become impossible after March. Badoglio will most likely spend the rainy season in bringing up his supplies, ready for a drive on Dassie in August-September. Except Imru's forces there is nothing in the north to hold up the Italians. Badoglio is master.

Peace Maneuvers.

In view of the fact that every day of non-activity is costing Italy 30,000 lire (one fighting day's double the amount) and that the main bulk of the army during the rainy season will have run up to four billion five hundred million lire between April 1 and September 1, there is good reason to believe that peace negotiations will be started soon. Emperor Haile Selassie, too, may let it be known that he is at the end of his financial resources. He may let it be known that he is a battle-scarred Dassie, but that would be a last and supreme gamble. Once Badoglio passes this town of Magdala, with its pitiful, old-fashioned brick work forts, Dassie is doomed. It may hold out a few weeks, maybe a few months, but after that the road to Addis Ababa lies open and the Dassie's ultimate occupation is a certainty.

Italy's Financial Strain.

On the other hand, Italy is exhausting herself very rapidly now, financially speaking. The Duce, even though he is victorious over Haile Selassie, faces a serious financial crisis. If he has the resources to carry the war to a successful conclusion, he certainly has not the capital required to keep Ethiopia under military occupation for years to come and exploit its riches at the same time. He will have to come knocking at England's and France's door for a loan, which is the fate of Ethiopia. Ethiopia will be settled definitely. Signor Mussolini has another alternative. He may make up with Germany. But there is no money in Germany, you say. True, but there is an army. The Duce might join in a German-Axis alliance. The Duce also knows Hitler, if he is, as Hitler claims, an Armageddon in Europe, will not come through that war, but will be crushed out of existence, annihilated, beaten into infinitesimal smithereens by France, Britain and the Soviet Union and their allies. Italy cannot save Germany in that case. Italy would also share Germany's fate.

Rumors of Peace.

Jesus Aefew, Ethiopian ambassador to Italy before the war, is on his way to Rome. He has come to propose what the proposals are. There is direct contact between Addis Ababa and Rome. The Duce is said to consider the proposals as a good basis of negotiation. This means that Haile Selassie is offering a lot. My guess is that he will be asked to give up the Amhara provinces and give up control of Oedan and Godjam to Italy and to Great Britain respectively as mandates, that he consents to grant Italy the right to exploit Ethiopia economically. This would mean an advisory international committee of the government of Addis Ababa, with the chairman of the committee an Italian. This would also give Mussolini the necessary loan to work Ethiopia's natural resources.

Good Morning BY LOUIE D. NEWTON.

SATURDAY AFTERNOONS.

When I was a little boy, attending the one-room school in a pine grove in Sorenson county, our wise and always interested teacher, said to the little group one Friday just before she dismissed school:

"What you do with your spare time will determine whether you will be useful men and women—whether you will be a joy or a sorrow to your parents—whether you will be a credit or a burden to your community. Please remember that when you finish the work you have to do about your home on Saturdays and the rest of the day is yours for recreation or some work of your choosing, remember, I say, that what you do with your spare time will determine whether you will be useful men and women. You may go. Good afternoon."

How many times I have thought of those words! How many times I have observed the fulfillment of her prophecy!

Many of you will go to your gardens this afternoon, forgetting the grind of the office, putting on old, uncomfortable clothes and shoes, and fully satisfied with the idea of manual labor—one of the most wholesome exercises of body, mind and soul. Others will assemble for games of one sort and another—let us hope in the open air. Still others will take to the woods for delightful tramps amid the haunts of nature. And many more will have the manner of spending these Saturday afternoons, they will have more influence upon our usefulness or lack of usefulness. Parents will remember this truth as it relates not only to themselves, but to their children. You will, therefore, allow me to say the joy of this and every other afternoon in your life will be well invested, bearing in the long to-morrows a rich harvest of satisfaction to yourself and others.

Postal Service.

A general postoffice was established in 1789 by authorization of Congress, in consequence of a plea of the postmaster-general, Ebenezer Hazard, that the new nation needed a federal postal system reaching every part of the country. He had some difficulties obtaining a charterization for private mail services were opened and they usually were faster and less expensive than the United States mail.

Memorial Day.

Memorial Day had its inception in 1866. In a letter to the Columbus (Ga.) Times, it is related, Mrs. Mary Ann Howard Williams proposed the idea of a day to honor the sacrifices of our martyred dead, with flowers, and thus instituted the Memorial Day custom in the south some time before the Decoration Day idea was adopted by the Grand Army of the Republic in the north.

A new scheme to give whole high school courses via films is on the fire. The algebra problems, one hears, are all to have happy endings.

President Roosevelt's call for contributions, through the Red Cross, to aid the thousands of sufferers from the disastrous floods now sweeping the states in the north and east should meet with prompt and liberal response.

Seldom has America been visited by a disaster so widespread and bringing acute suffering and heavy loss to so many people. The homes of 38,000 families have been either totally destroyed or made uninhabitable.

Most of the approximately 300,000 members of these families are without shelter, food or medical attention except that which will be provided for them by a sympathetic and warm-hearted people.

The funds called for by President Roosevelt are not for the rehabilitation of destroyed homes and business structures, but to make it possible that the actual necessities of life may be given to these stricken thousands.

Many of these families have lost members as the result of deaths in the swirling waters of the floods, there are thousands of injured and other thousands who are suffering from exposure.

America must open its heart and its pocketbook to such a plea for assistance. The Red Cross has the machinery to extend aid to every one of these unfortunate families, and all that is needed is that the necessary money be furnished to buy the food, clothing and other items needed.

The Atlanta Chapter of the Red Cross is located at 291 Peachtree street. Donations made there will be immediately forwarded to the flood-swept areas and within a few hours will have finished their errands of mercy.

GEORGE C. CRAWFORD

The death in Birmingham of George Gordon Crawford removes an outstanding and constructive leader of American industry.

A native of Madison, Ga., Mr. Crawford spent his boyhood in Atlanta. He was a member of the first graduating class of Georgia Tech and soon after entered the steel industry as a chemist with the Carnegie Steel Corporation.

It is said that steel men are "born, not made." Mr. Crawford was of that type, and his ability and intense interest in his work caused him within a comparatively few years to become one of the recognized leaders of the country in the affairs of the steel industry.

No man has rendered more far-reaching service in the development of the steel industry in the south, and the elimination of the evils with which it was handicapped during the early years of its existence, than Mr. Crawford. Largely as the result of his individual efforts, the industry in the south assumed its proper position in relation to the branches in other sections of the country.

He was an outstanding leader in removing the objectionable conditions surrounding labor conditions in the industry, and was the moving spirit in the creation of the modern steel town of Fairfield, in the center of the Alabama steel district.

His life was one of constructive leadership in his chosen work and his wise council will be missed, both in the steel and in business affairs generally, both north and south.

G. O. P. TACTICS

While several republican hopefuls have definitely announced their desire to be the party's candidate for the presidency, and their adherents are frantically beating the big drums to summon supporters to the several band wagons, word comes out of the east that the bigwigs of the party have finally agreed upon the man who will be nominated, and the name of the unfortunate individual will be disclosed as a compromise candidate at the psychological time during the convention in June.

Meanwhile the hopefuls are going up and down the land, speaking to various assemblages of republicans and denouncing the New Deal as the country's ruin, despite the fact that statistics disclose fourteen of the leading industrial corporations of the country were $265,850,000 better off in 1935 than they were in 1933.

In proportion as these great companies prospered smaller industries were benefited, and these benefits passed on to the nation—workmen, farmers, mercantile establishments and the professions.

In Vermont a rum is being made of maple syrup. To date, however, no griddle-cake, addict has gone home and beaten the wife.

An edible paper has been developed in Sweden. It is believed in commercial circles the cardboard pellicle will, in time, supersede the lower crust.

UNDERWOOD APPLIES TREATMENT TO TRIAL

Legal 'Cold Turkey' Shortens Drug Case Considerably; Testimony Ended.

Judge E. Marvin Underwood edged forward yesterday in the trial of Dr. Jephtha S. Freeman and gave the who works the "cold turkey" treatment.

It was a practical demonstration to the jury as to how the "cold turkey" is applied and it worked. Judge Underwood snapped them off, cut them short, made them stick to the point and rescued a gasping jury from what promised to be a week of prolonged dull conversation.

As a result the case will go to the jury this morning instead of next Saturday, as lawyers for both sides seemed to have planned. Judge Underwood will deliver his charge this morning at 10 o'clock and the jury will then return to determine whether Dr. Freeman is guilty of having issued narcotic prescriptions incautiously or illegally.

Judge Underwood started the day with the warning that he would "finalize this case by Monday."

"I wish both sides would save time and money," he said, "and get to the evidence," he said and then stepped in to help the lawyers to achieve the purpose of his wishes.

Dr. Samuel Kahn, Atlanta psychiatrist and expert witness for the defense, started to wander afield under the questioning of Hall Lindsey, chief counsel for the prosecution.

Judge Underwood interrupted:

"I wish you would limit the examination to what are the recognized methods today of dealing with drug addicts."

Assistant United States Attorney M. Neil Andrews started to question the credibility of Dr. Kahn as witness, but the judge ruled his questions out.

The judge bowed down all day and the lawyers agreed to limit arguments to an hour for each side. Judge Underwood called the jury back during the afternoon and the argument was concluded before 3 o'clock at 5 o'clock. The jury will return this morning to hear the charge and the verdict will be known probably during the day.

AUTO DEATH TRIAL JURY DISCHARGED

Mistrial Declared in Involuntary Manslaughter Case Against R. E. Harelson.

After the jury had deliberated more than three hours yesterday, Judge John D. Humphries declared a mistrial in the case of the state against R. E. Harelson, who was charged with involuntary manslaughter in connection with the death July 14, 1935, of Miss Ryne Vaughan.

It was agreed that the jury was unable to agree whether Harelson was guilty of the charge or not. It was agreed they stood deadlocked, 10 to 2, when the judge discharged them.

Assistant Solicitor Quincy Arnold was sought to prove that Harelson was driving his car at a high rate of speed when his car collided with a machine in which Miss Vaughan was riding on the night of July 13.

The fatal accident occurred at Angier avenue and Glen Iris drive, where Miss Vaughan and a companion had gone after hearing a police radio report of a fight in the vicinity.

The state brought out that the young girl was thrown under the car alleged to have been driven by Harelson and that boiling water from its punctured radiator caused burns, which resulted in her death a few hours later.

Witnesses for the state testified they saw two men remove cases of bottles from Harelson's car. The defense claimed the accident was unavoidable and that Harelson aided the girl all he could.

Miss Vaughan's body was removed from the car by two men, one of whom was Harelson.

Trail of Lonesome Pine

Memorable Film at Fox

The Fox theater has a memorable show this week in "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine," a picture primarily because the charming, quaint, and loquacious of the leading Tolliver's. "Tetched in the Hand," "in green-up time" and "fetch a poke of meal" are examples of the language employed by the hill people in this improved technicolor production photographed in the most artistic manner and portrayal provided by the new technique. Sylvia Sidney, Henry Fonda and Fred MacMurray in the central roles seem to have been created just for this really unusual picture.

The mining company buys coal deposits, builds a railroad in the middle of the simple people whom the world had forgotten. Money and city ways impose a strange revolution on them, changes they only faintly sense, and fight and cherish simultaneously.

Romance is the love of Miss Fonda, her love for the new world of the engineer, MacMurray, and her own and Fonda's. Tears well to your eyes frequently in highly emotional scenes of their plight. Real everything-goes fights, a father emptying his revolver into his own son for shooting a traditional enemy, an opportunity with a woman whom one of the highlights you will remember.

This is the first full-length color picture made outdoors. We hope it will become general because the improvement, the restfulness, as compared to black and white is astounding.

"The Trail of the Lonesome Pine" is without a doubt a picture everyone who sees will enjoy. It probably won't be the best film of 1936, but should be near the top of the list.

Love Before Breakfast Is Feature at Paramount.

Love under difficulties instead of "Love Before Breakfast" should be the title of the Paramount's feature picture for the week.

What with a masterfully delivered black eye and various and sundry other trials and tribulations thrown in the face of true love, this witty film moves swiftly to a happy (sic) climax.

The cycle of pictures started by "The Thin Man" is continued here, although "Love Before Breakfast" bears no resemblance in theme to the earlier offering. The dialog is typical of the cycle, though, and is unusually good.

Carole Lombard is the receiver of the rough treatment, mostly at the hands of the author, who also aided in the various actions here, another, a Peckin, and the oldest villain of all, love.

Cesar Romero, Foster's screen rival in this picture, spends most of the five reels in Japan, popping up only at times to hinder the progress of the action, blushing with the intensity Warner Baxter gives it, follows and in the end Dr. Mudd is vindicated.

Gloria Stuart, as the doctor's faithful wife, gives a tender touch to the otherwise "blood and thunder" story. Claude Gillingwater, as his Confederate veteran father-in-law, provides many a laugh and tear.

An excellent short subject depicting the sport of gliding completes the bill.

FLOOD DESTRUCTION

A news reel "extra" showing rivers as they flood the New England states, spreading death and disaster in cities and towns, being shown at the Fox theater. They were shown for the first time yesterday.

FLOOD WATERS MOVE INTO NEW TERRITORY

since it was inundated. Governor for $10,000 to speed relief. George H. Earle asked Washington to contribute with him.

While several rivers plagued upon such cities as Hartford, Conn., and Marietta, Ohio, engulfing numerous and smaller communities on their way, the victims of other flood-ravaged areas found themselves confronted with disease, thirst and discouraging damage.

The first day of spring found more than 200,000 homeless—the Red Cross reported it was caring for 270,000 in 18 states—and damaged property estimated at $300,000,000.

Explosions, fires and panic-breeding followed in the wake of the debris-laden rivers.

The plot recounts the developments which follow when Bancroft, a big-hearted guy under his rough exterior, first rescues Jory from the brink of ruin and then does the same for Miss Sothern.

Miss Sothern, out of gratitude, marries the master of the "Southern Cross," although in love with Jory. There is a thrilling climax with love triumphant in the end, and Bancroft doing the heroic, noble thing.

The surrounding bill of shorts is excellent. Gus Van and a group of clever entertainers do their stuff; an animated cartoon, news reel and a short comedy are shown.

Moving Drama at Rialto Is Hell-Ship Morgan'

Two-listed and entertaining are the words for "Hell-Ship Morgan." Universal picture starring George Bancroft, Victor Jory and Ann Sothern, which opened yesterday at the Rialto theater for its second week's engagement.

The film is a stirring tale of life and love in a sun boat, one of the small but sturdy craft engaged in that fishing industry.

Bancroft is seen as the hard-boiled master of the vessel, ruling his crew with a clenched fist. It is the type of role which made him famous and he moves toward it with all his old-time power.

Senators' Fast Young Team Rates 'Dark Horse' in American

HARRIS PLEASED WITH PROSPECTS IN SPRING DRILL

Improved Pitching and Hustling Infield To Make Difference.

By Eddie Briez.

ORLANDO, Fla., March 20.—(AP)—While this business of nominating American league "dark horses" goes merrily on, it might be just as well to include the Washington Senators.

Young fast and full of pep, the reconditioned Griffins are doing things in the trapdoor loop that has everyone gasping.

They go about bumping off the solid gold Boston Red Sox and the world's champion Detroit Tigers, just like that. No wonder "Old Fox" Clark Griffith and Manager Harry Harris are smiling all over Orlando.

This club is young and loaded with prospects. Harris' last words got to show that it can stand the gaff. But if it keeps on improving and it should—it will cause a lot of surprises and a lot of headaches."

"Are you shooting for fifty place?"

Bah, snorted Harris. "I'll be tremendously disappointed if it doesn't do better than that." And he meant it.

IMPROVED PITCHING.

Improved pitching and an infield experience which already shows signs of clicking are the reasons Harris thinks the 1936 Senators can step out.

"Shifting Cecil Travis to shortstop and starting Johnny Lewis, the third base, may make this club," he said.

"Lewis looks like a real find. If he fails to make good, I'd hate to have to take over a scouting assignment," but pitching is what makes or breaks a ball team and the Senators fail to live up to Bucky's expectations this season, it will be because some of his young slabbats need another year's experience under their belts."

"In two or three less, I expect to have the best young crew in the American league," he said.

GOOD HURLERS. In addition to the loud-mouthed Buck Newson, from the St. Louis Browns, the starters will be Ed Link, who won his last eight games for the Griffins last year; Earl Whitehill, veteran southpaw; Pete Appling, by far the right-hander from Memphis, who Harris says has found his spot; and Jimmy Doshong, the surest dressed curver from the Yanks.

"I'm impressed with Doshong," Harris said, "and he's going to get every chance to prove he can start ball games."

Henry Coppola and Monte Weaver will be used as the principal relief hurlers. Richard Lahanan, southpaw recruit from Chattanooga, has an excellent chance of sticking.

The third outfielder, with Joe Kuhl, at first; Charlie Myer, bat-champion of the American league, at second; Travis, on short, and Lewis at third, Oswald Bluge, Ralph Kreis and the promising Cuban, Roberto Estalella, will be kept around just in case.

STRONG OUTFIELD.

It looks like Jesse Hill, from the St. Louis' outfield, with Carl Schulze and Carl Reynolds as the extra gardeners.

Harris intends to carry three catchers—Cliff Bolton, No. 1; James Holbrook and Bill Starr, the latter a freshman from Hattiesburg.

The Senior manager says any one of his men's first division clubs can not sell to the New York Yankees short.

"They're no pushovers for anybody," he said. "If they get the pitching they should and their stars return to normal form, they should—watch out for them."

SAVANNAH GETS NIGHT BASEBALL

SAVANNAH, Ga., March 20.—(AP)—Night baseball was introduced for local fans today when the city accepted an offer made by the Savannah Indians to convert the municipal stadium football light into equipment suitable for baseball and football.

In the meantime the club held its first batting practice of the season with Manager Bob LaRocca giving the youngsters a chance to show him how well they could bat.

Training starts in earnest Monday when 25 or more experienced men are in camp.

Sarazen in Augusta For Title Defense

AUGUSTA, Ga., March 20.—(AP)—George Sarazen, the defending champion, came to Augusta today to defend his masters' golf championship.

Following the same procedure as he adopted last year, Sarazen plans a week of intensive training before staking his crown in the classic Masters, a 72-hole medal play tournament.

Sarazen was welcomed by Bobby Jones, who arrived Thursday. W. Lawson Little Jr., the current British and American amateur kingpin, was scheduled to put in his appearance tomorrow.

LOGEY RESIGNS.

DENVER, March 20.—(AP)—Percy Loge, head football coach at Denver University since 1932, resigned today to join the administrative staff of Oregon State College. He said he plans to quit coaching "permanently."

Dixie Howell Sent To Portland Club

LAKELAND, Fla., March 20.—(AP)—Manager Mickey Cochran had his Tigers squad by two today, sending Dixie Howell and Steve Larkin to the Portland club of the Pacific Coast league on option.

Howell, an infielder, came up to the Tigers last year from the University of Alabama, wound up at Birmingham, but left to coach a football team in Mexico City. Larkin, a pitcher, came to the squad two years ago from Shreveport. He was optioned to Milwaukee last season but also wound up at Beaumont.

Simmons Holding Key To Detroit's Success

Pennant Hopes of Tigers Rest on Broad-Shouldered, Slugging Outfielder.

By Paul Michelson.

LAKELAND, Fla., March 20.—(AP)—Al Simmons, a ball player who couldn't help the Chicago White Sox out of the second division, strangely enough holds the big master key this year to the American league throne room.

On his broad shoulders rest the pennant hopes of the world champion Detroit Tigers. His bat, muffled to a .267 groan last season with the luckless White Sox, must roar again as it once did for Philadelphia if the Tigers are to offset and turn back the added power of their rivals.

REPORTS CONVINCED NOW.

When Al was sold to Detroit for $75,000 last December, the expert concluded that he was the best player in the league, and the experts who changed their minds. Those believe Simmons is the Simmons of old—that he will supply the power to keep the Tigers top. He is convinced he can do it, too.

"Chicago is a great baseball town, and they treated me like a king even when I slumped," he said as he finished a grueling workout to cut down on his weight. "That is slightly out of the normal," but I can do that any good. But this year I feel that I am all set to go. I will have a big advantage by playing with a championship club. I don't ask for spots, but on a team of hard hitters you will find it easier to find softer touches. You won't have pitchers bearing down on just one man."

A LIGHTER BAT.

Manager Mickey Cochrane unquestionably is one of the big reasons for the Tigers' late on-set of baseball life. First of all Mickey go! Al to use lighter bat, contending that as players get older they should use lighter bludgeons. Even with the lighter stick, Al's bat is four inches longer than the one wielded by Charlie Gehring, one of the greatest hitters in the game today.

During batting practice Simmons has given the sphere one merry ride. He fails to make good, I'd hate to have to take over a scouting assignment," but pitching is what makes or breaks a ball team and the Senators fail to live up to Bucky's expectations this season, it will be because some of his young slabbats need another year's experience under their belts.

Even though he hit .287 last season, Simmons still holds a high career average of .347 for his 12 years in the American league. His greatest year with the stick was 1927 when he batted .392. At 33 he still shows some good years left.

Cochrane is content. Al is only trouble at Chicago was mental. He worried about the brisk wind off Lake Michigan, the distance of the fences and finally worried himself out of his batting streak. That should be all changed now that he's with us."

The LINEMEN.

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., March 20.—(AP)—Continuing his efforts to make the pine for some big games this season, will roll in the ten-game contest and should provide plenty of competition for the others. Mrs. T. Overton, Mrs. E. C. Dunn, Mrs. Thomas W. Wilkins, Jane Black, Mrs. Carl Tidwell, Mrs. Jimmy War-mington, Mrs. John S. Black, Mrs. T. G. Allen, Dot Morris, Sarah Garner, Bebe Bangert, Mrs. J. Tiedemann and Mary Pearson will be entered from Atlanta.

In the men's division Atlanta, Walter E. Lowman, L. M. Tappan, Ed Gladning, G. B. French, Frank Burns, Carl Tidwell, G. W. McKey, Mit Carrington, Bill McAdams and E. B. Outler will be entered.

The contest is staged under the auspices of the Atlanta Duckpin Association and is sanctioned by the National Duckpin Bowling Congress.

Cadets Name Thompson Captain

Ellison Thompson, of Tuskegee, Ala., was named honorary captain of G. M. A.'s 1936 football team at the annual banquet held Saturday night at the Hotel Tropic. Thompson played in the backfield and was one of the outstanding players on the team.

Ben Burdick, an end of Oklahoma City, Okla., was elected alternate captain.

Harris intends to carry three catchers—Cliff Bolton, No. 1; James Holbrook and Bill Starr, the latter a freshman from Hattiesburg.

The Senior manager says any one of his men's first division clubs can not sell to the New York Yankees short.

FIRO GETS LICENSE.

BUENOS AIRES, March 20.—(AP)—The municipal boxing commission granted a boxing license to Luis Angel Firpo, one-time contender for the world's heavyweight championship, after watching him train today. A crowd of 15,000 cheered the veteran "Wild Bull of the Pampas" as he went through the paces he hopes will lead to a successful comeback.

Following the banquet members of the team were guests of the Fox theater.

thing like $40,000 in actual money, and it didn't help much.

Last year's ball club wasn't nearly as expensive as might have been thought. It just clicked. Which is the big story anyhow.

UP IN BOSTON.

Up in Boston the new owner started the 1933 season by spending money. He bought George Piggas and Allen Cooke for $70,000. Bill Werber cost them $35,000. Rick Ferrell and Lloyd Brown cost $100,000.

And where did the Boston Red Sox come to rest in September? In seventh place.

Before the 1934 season began, Boston bought Bob Grove, Henry Johnson, Max Bishop, Herb Pennock, Rube Wager, Wes Ferrell and a half dozen others. More than $300,000 was spent.

The club finished in fourth place that season. Before the 1935 season Boston spent $250,000 for Joe Cronin and a few thousand for other men. And the club was lucky to finish fourth.

This year, Boston has spent another $400,000 for ball players. And it will be interesting to watch what happens.

Certainly they do not look like pennant-winners those Boston Red Sox.

Which brings us up against the undeniable fact a ball club can't be bought. It must have, in addition to luck and good players, a certain intangible something which makes a ball club's parts become a machine. That intangible something can't be purchased.

THE DANCE OF THE $$$$$$.

The dance of the $$$$$$ is exciting reading. But the fact remains there must be good baseball sense connected with it.

The late Wilbert Robinson could take a few worn-out pitchers, an ex-barber or so, and a man called Joe and come very near winning pennants with them. He will remain to me one of the real geniuses of baseball, despite the fact a few such Connie Mack and John McGraw are rated above him as managers.

Connie Mack's showings, everything considered, are not so great. McGraw had money and baseball sense. Your Uncle Wilbert Robinson had just baseball sense.

In the minor leagues, Larry Gilbert seems to do more with less than any other manager. Gilbert has had a very good working agreement with Cleveland, but the fact remains he takes youngsters and veterans and manages to create that intangible something which changes a ball club from nine men into a machine.

At Decatur Rites

A marriage of interest was that of Miss Frances Lillian Blodgett, daughter of Mrs. William Hamilton Blodgett and the late Mr. Blodgett, of Decatur, to Richard de Bernieres Waddell, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Waddell, of Atlanta. The ceremony was performed on March 19 at the First Presbyterian church in Decatur, with the pastor, Dr. D. P. McGahey, performing the ceremony in the presence of relatives and friends.

An effective arrangement of palms and ferns formed a background for the seven-branched candelabra which held the unity candle, a candle which the arrangement was a floor basket of set Easter lilies. Mrs. Sydney Wilson rendered appropriate selection prior to and during the marriage service. The bride and bridegroom entered together.

She was lovely in an ensemble of blue wool with white kidskin collar which was draped in front of the neck and formed a becoming trimming around the throat. Her blouse was of white satin and her navy blue straw hat matched her gown and was trimmed with white hyacinths. She wore a bouquet of white orchids. Following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Waddell left for a wedding trip, after which they will reside with the bride's mother in Decatur.

Miss Zaida Clay Entertains At Brilliant Club Movie Ball

One of the most unique and enjoyable affairs of the younger social season was the movie ball given last evening by Miss Zaida Clay at the Brookhaven Country Club in celebration of her twelfth birthday anniversary. The charming young hostess received her guests in a room decorated similar to that worn by Nelson Eddy when he played opposite Jeanette McDonald in the screen success, "Naughty Marietta." The hostess is the lovely young daughter of Dr. G. C. Evans, Atlanta.

The ball was a sold-out movie premiere, and guests received tickets at a booth at the door. Ushees from prominent Atlanta theaters escorted the guests to the ballroom, which was colorfully decorated with rainbow balloons and a profusion of bright streamers. There were releases among the dancers. Billboard advertisements of popular current shows were placed on the walls of the gaily decorated ballroom. A banquet table at the end of the hall was centered with a three-tiered birthday cake containing 12 lighted candles, which upon removal, a plateau of brilliant yellow joulouis.

Program Features.

During the evening a program was featured with Mrs. Evans Joseph presiding over the ceremony. She was gowned in an attractive outfit depicting Mac West. A Major Bowes' amateur grand march, a silent film of popular dances, and games were features of the entertainment. The first prize awarded for the most attractive girl's costume was a handsome beaded bag of seed pearls with an interwoven rose design, and the boy's first prize was a transparent pencil of a prominent horse. The second prize for the best costumes was a bracelet of silver horseshoes for the girl, and a hand-some leather autograph book with a lock and key for the boy.

As the guests entered the ballroom, they presented their tickets, which were torn in half. A portion of the ticket was returned to the owner, and the other half was placed in a box. During the evening, the box was opened and guests possessing the matching halves were awarded prizes. The first prize for the girls was a smart sport watch encased in alligator skin, and the first prize for the boys was a diamond ring. The second prize was a sport tie set for the boy and a dress shirt for the girl.

Spring Garden Notes

Marie Fletcher Pearson Crown

My next move is to the next 2-foot strip of top soil. As this is removed I put it onto the fresh manure in the first strip. As it is put on I mix some sifted coal ashes, bone meal, and humus with it. For humus use either leafmold or peatmoss. By keeping the manure deep, it will not be bothered with too many weeds. Thus I proceed the entire length of the bed or border, handling the top soil but once. For the top soil on the last strip prepared I bring by wheelbarrow the top soil taken from the first strip. This is really easier to do than to write about. After the bed is finished, it will be several inches higher than the walk, but it will settle decided as it ripens during the next few weeks. If you plan to grow the usual perennials in this bed a light sprinkling of agricultural lime, about six pounds to every 100 square feet can be used. It will be better if you will have a week or two before planting, for the bed is certain to raise a rough condition, but it will soon settle. A perennial bed must be especially well prepared for their roots go deep and here in the south they feed month in the year.

The beautifully designed shoes above sketched in an Atlanta shop by the Constitution's style artist, embody both desires of the modern. There's originality and in the design, and comfort. The boot that is shown is secured by the high arch and narrow heel.

The top sketch is a strap model in all-over white kid with a piping of white lustre—about $8.75.

AVG. PRICE.

NEW ORLEANS. March 20.—(P)—The average price of middling spot cotton at 10 southern markets today was 11.40 cents a pound. Subsidy 0.60 cent.

ATLANTA SPOT COTTON.
Atlanta spot cotton closed steady, middling 5 points up at 11.90.

NEW ORLEANS. March 20.—(P)—Cotton advanced around 25 cents a bale in quiet dealings today.

Active positions held above the previous closing levels for most of the session and ended at the best levels of the day. The trade and professionals bought on the first call and sufficient purchases were made in the market to absorb the light offerings during the day.

The advance occurred in the face of news developments that were potentially bearish.

A noon-hour radio address by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace included two statements that were not only highly significant by the trade. One was the secretary's assertion that private estimates made to the department indicated an increase of 15 per cent in cotton acreage this year. The other was the administration's obvious alarm over the way farmers are going ahead with plans to plant more land to cotton without waiting for the new cotton program.

A few bright spots were furnished during the day by trade statistics. With four months still to go before the end of the fiscal year, exports are less than 200,000 bales behind the total shipped abroad during the 1934-35 season. Spinners' takings last year and 653,114 acre before last year 971 last year and 145,038 acre before last and for the first 20 days of March is has been 316,968 against 303,373 last year and 452,062 acre before last.

Trade movement since August 1 shows a gain of 100,000 bales at all United States ports 641,914 against 4,100,311 last year and 6,700,000 acre before last, overland across the Mississippi, Ohio and Potomac rivers to New York and Canada 60,122 against 577,700 last year and 653,114 acre before last.

For stocks in excess of those held in the commercial year 727,854 against 645,943 last year and 868,216 year before last; southern mill takings net 8,812,000 against 2,900,000 last year and 3,240,000 acre before last.

The final estimate on ginning was released and the total of 10,417,237 running bales was closely in line with the government's estimate in December of 10,700,000 bales of 500 pounds each.

The advance occurred in the face of news developments that were potentially bearish.

TARZAN AND THE LEOPARD MEN No. 72

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

As dusk enclosed the dismal village of the Leopard Men, Bobolo conducted Old Timer to the secret passage that led underground to the banks of the great river. Overhead, in the trees, the white giant and the little monkey moved with them silently, cautiously.

"I am afraid; let us go back," Nkima pleaded.

"Turn around when you wish," Tarzan answered sternly. But the monkey made no move to retreat. He was afraid to go on, yet he was even more afraid to go back. Here, at least, Tarzan's presence gave him comfort.

Now Bobolo removed the brush camouflage that concealed the entrance to the secret passage. Old Timer entered, believing that he was on the path to safety. A few minutes later, Tarzan dropped down, and he too entered the dark tunnel, followed by quaking Nkima.

After a while Bobolo and Old Timer emerged on the bank of the river. There, on the narrow strand, stood a host of taloned warriors of the Leopard Clan. Quickly they encircled the helpless white man. "To the Temple of the Leopard Clan!" Bobolo commanded.
